

Source Energy Services Announces Contract with Canyon Services Group

Sales contract secures proppant supply for oilfield service companies

CALGARY, AB, September 11, 2014 -- Source Energy Services LP, ("Source Energy"), announced today the entry into a long-term proppant supply agreement with Canyon Services Group Inc. ("Canyon"), an oilfield service company providing hydraulic fracturing and other well-stimulation services, to oil and natural gas producers across Western Canada. The supply agreement sees Canyon securing a set volume of Source White frac sand in order to supply its Canadian fracturing services operations.

"Source Energy Services is excited to enter into this long-term partnership with Canyon," said Brad Thomson, Chief Executive Officer of Source Energy. "We're confident that our Wisconsin production facility and our extensive distribution network will allow us to provide a level of service to Canyon that they haven't been able to receive before."

"Canyon is built around developing strong partnerships," says Brad Fedora, CEO, Canyon Services Group. "The high quality of proppant, along with the distribution network to get the proppant where we need it, is critical to our business. Source Energy is working with us to solve this supply issue."

"Industry research shows that frac sand demand could double by 2016," says Thomson. "It's important that we work with our partners like Canyon to find solutions to both the supply and distribution challenge in Canada."
